Following Jesus requires constant conversion and purification of our heart from within.

We are given plenty of warning today about being too focused on external actions while ignoring those things that can actually harm us—things that defile us from the inside. Spend time on your interior disposition, for that is where conversion of the heart takes place.

St. Gregory – September 3rd

St. Gregory the Great was a keen observer of human nature. Who doesn't recognize the truth in saying, "Those who stumble on plain ground should shrink from approaching a precipice"? Or the clarity of reminding people that it is easier to give up possessions than to change your heart, for "to renounce what one has is a minor thing, but to renounce what one is, that is asking a lot."

Recently, Gregory's name has become popularly known again with the release of a best-selling recording of Spanish monks singing Gregorian chant. Ironically although we know that St. Gregory reformed the liturgy of the Church during his reign as pope, we aren't sure how much of the reformation of the music bearing his name he is actually responsible for.

Nevertheless, Gregorian chant has made something of a comeback after being relegated to obscure monasteries for several hundred years. The renewed appeal of this centuries-old music has baffled industry experts. (But it hasn't prevented them from making a profit off of it!) What is it about chant that can attract even a modern audience raised on rock and roll?

The answer may lie in the chant itself. Gregorian chant is a form of sacred singing that can be traced back to ancient Jewish synagogue music. When correctly performed, it is sung without accompaniment. Gregorian chant isn't the only kind of chant (Ambrosian is another, for instance), but it is the best known. Once you've heard chant, you'll never forget it. And you'll either love it or hate it.

Cleanness of heart

Today pollution has become a big issue,
and rightly so.

People want clean water, clean air, and clean food.

But we should be even more concerned about the most dangerous pollution of all, namely, evil.

Pride, anger, hate, lust, greed, envy...

all these are dangerous pollutants.

So what must we do?

We must purify the source; the heart is the source.

It is the well-spring from which all our thoughts, words, and deeds flow.

If the heart is clean, all that flows from it will be clean.

Blessed are the clean of heart: they shall see God.
