Focus of the Sunday Readings

We are to use the unique gifts and talents given to us by the Spirit to further the work and mission of the Church.

We are reminded by Saint Paul in today's second reading that we were baptized in one Spirit into the one body. The Spirit has bestowed unique gifts and talents upon each of us, and we are to use these gifts to help further the work and mission of the Church and to help build up God's kingdom on earth. Like the Apostles, we are to boldly proclaim our faith and use our gifts to serve others.

In the first reading, filled with the Holy Spirit, the Apostles speak to the crowd. Those present hear the message in their native tongue. In the second reading, Paul explains that it is through the Holy Spirit that one can profess Jesus as Lord and receive gifts. In the Gospel, Jesus appears to the disciples. He breathes on them saying, Receive the Holy Spirit.

A new language

On Pentecost day the apostles spoke a new language.

What was this new language?

It was the language of peace rather than of war;
the language of cooperation rather than of competition;
the language of forgiveness rather than of vengeance;
the language of hope rather than of despair;
the language of tolerance rather than bigotry;
the language of friendship rather than of hostility;
the language of unity rather than of division;
the language of love rather than of hate.

Through the gift of the Spirit,
people of different languages learned to profess one faith,
to the praise and glory of God.

That is the real miracle of Pentecost,
and it is a miracle which, thankfully, still happens.
